CONSTRUCTION CASE STUDY

FSG's San Antonio Branch Supports Andretti Indoor Karting & Games' Texas Expansion

CHALLENGE

Andretti Indoor Karting & Games was eager to complete another important step of its company expansion into the Texas market with a sleek, new facility in San Antonio. Andretti selected ARCO Murray to serve as General Contractor on the project, and to execute the multi-faceted electrical work scope, ARCO Murray selected FSG. With a long list of successful projects in its resume and a deep bench of talented team members available to execute the work scope, ARCO Murray knew FSG was the right choice to meet Andretti's aggressive timeline.

SOLUTION

For this new concept entertainment venue, exact specifications were under almost constant review throughout the project, with many change orders driven by emerging technology and the project owner's desire to represent the latest concepts available within its showcase destination. With a tight deadline and a steady stream of submittals and reviews taking place between the project architect and project engineer, FSG's team stayed on top of every change order and maintained clear communication up and down the chain between approval and execution.

RESULT

Andretti Indoor Karting & Games opened on time and to the delight of both the project owner and local residents eager to experience the latest in active, thrilling indoor entertainment. Project success was delivered through top-shelf management and with an FSG team of electricians working at the top of their game. This challenging project provided FSG with another opportunity to demonstrate the strength of its organization.
